Congressman Tom McClintock began his public service in the California State Assembly in 1982 at just 26 years old and went on to serve more than two decades in the legislature, earning recognition as a leading advocate for fiscal discipline, tax relief, and individual liberty. Since 2009, he has represented California in Congress, where he has built a record as a principled defender of constitutional government. From advancing policies on fiscal responsibility, water and forest management, and border security, to consistently standing for limited government and free enterprise, McClintock has remained one of the nation's most respected conservative voices, dedicated to protecting the freedoms and values that define America's success.
